

I urge the FCC to maintain a CW requirement for skill testing.

I support the proposal presented by the F.I.S.T.S organization regarding the difficulty levels needed for Technician, General and Extra.

As a individual who is constantly testing for my career and enjoyment I have found that the test and certs that are easy to pass are not useful in the real world. A test or certification that requires study and understanding verified by an indepth test is a foundation to be cherished.
